

Good News TV Has Come to Denver!

There's Good News for Denver Metro area antenna television viewers! On September 15, channel 26.5, which covers a population of about 2.95 million throughout the Denver-metro area, began broadcasting the best Adventist programming from a wide variety of Seventh-day Adventist ministries 24 hours/day.

Denver area viewers are already calling in! Some to request prayer, DVDs, Bible study guides, program schedules, and even the address to the nearest Adventist Church.

Good News TV started in Arizona 13 years ago, where at least 1/3 of new-believers being baptized in area churches today trace their introduction to the Adventist Church to this television ministry. It is estimated that 98% of viewers are not Seventh-day Adventists.

Help support the joy of seeing viewers walk into your church for the first time, often without any previous contact. Those who join, become active members, who are more likely to stay since they are continuously nurtured and encouraged through the Christ-centered, truth-filled programming on the channel. Additionally, we look forward to promoting your church events on the channel!

The cost of airing this channel is about $4,000 per month, about $1,000 of which has been raised so far. A Spanish channel can also be added in Denver for about another $2,000 per month, and the coverage can be extended over more of Colorado and Wyoming as support increases.
